CARPETS.

NEW STORE IN HUNTINGDON.

JAMES A. BROWN has just opened a large CARPET STORE on the second floor of his brick building, where buyers will find one of the largest and best assortments of

BRUSSELS, INGRAIN, DUTCH WOOL, COTTON, RAG, LIST, VENITIAN and SCOTCH HEMP Carpets,

Also, COCOA and CANTON MATTINGS, and FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,

Ever offered in central Pennsylvania.

It is well known that a merchant who deals entirely in one line of goods buying largely from manufacturers is enabled to give his customers advantages in prices and assortment (in that line of goods) that are not to be found in stores professing to do all kinds of business.

I shall aim therefore to make it the interest of all in want of the above goods, to buy at the regular Carpet and Oil Cloth Store.

Dealers can buy of me by the roll at wholesale prices. sp15'69 JAMES A. BROWN.

THE ÆTNA STILL AHEAD.

IT has been tried and has never failed to give satisfaction to the purchaser. Farmers will find it to their advantage to call on the subscriber during the April court and examine the above machine. It will be on exhibition at the Court House in Huntingdon during the two weeks of court.

It is a combined Machine: can be changed from a Mower to a Reaper in a few moments; can be worked with a slow team, it being lighter geared than other machines and the draft being reduced to the lowest attainable point. Reaping and Mowing with the Ætna is no harder on the team than plowing oats and stubble. It is believed by all who have tried it that it is the machine best adapted to the wants of the farmers in this county. It has no side draft and no weight on the horses' necks.

We will also have one of the Wood Reapers and Mowers on the ground at the same time. Farmers intending to purchase machines this season will do well to examine the above machines before purchasing elsewhere. All you want is to examine the Ætna to enable you to make up your mind what machine to buy. I am the authorized agent of Messrs. Wharton & Maguire for the above machines, also for the Willoughby Gum spring Drill.

I will also have one of the famous Harpoon Hay-forks on hand, which every farmer should examine whether he needs a fork or not. Every farmer should have one. They are the best in the market. No farmer that tries one could be induced to purchase any other kind. I have the exclusive right of this county. Wharton & Maguire are my agents for the sale of the above Hay Fork. Any other person selling the above Fork in Huntingdon county will be dealt with according to law in such cases. Don't forget where to call. At Wharton & Maguire's, or at the Court House during court week.

TRODDEN FLOWERS.

ALFRED TENNYSON.

There are some hearts that, like the loving vine,
Cling to unkindly rocks and ruined towers—
Spirits that suffer and do not repine—
Patient and sweet as lowly trodden flowers,
That from the passer's heel arise,
And bring back odorous breath instead of sighs.

But there are other hearts that will not feel
The lonely love that haunts their eyes and ears,
That wound fond faith with anger worse than steel
And out of pity's spring draw life in tears.
Oh, Nature! shall it ever be thy will
Ill things with good to mingle—good with ill?

Why should the heavy foot of sorrow press
The willing heart of uncomplaining love?
Meek Charity, that shrinks not from distress,
Gentleness, loth her tyrants to reprove,
Though Virtue weep forever and lament,
Will one hard heart turn from her and repent?

Why should the reed be broken that will bend,
And they that dry the tears to others' eyes,
Feel their own anguish swelling without end—
Their summer darkened from the smoke of sighs.
Sure, Love, to some fair region of his own
Will flee at last, and leave us here alone?

Love weepeth always—weepeth to the past
For woes that have, for woes that may befide;
Why should not hard Ambition weep at last,
Envy and Hatred, Avarice and Pride?
Fate whispers, so low in your lot,
They would be rebels; Love rebelleth not.

Astounding Discovery.

A Race of Sentient Beings Invisible to the Naked Eye Discovered with the Microscope.

The Mobile Register, of the 18th contains an account of a most remarkable discovery. It says:

We accepted an invitation yesterday to examine one of the most wonderful and awful discoveries ever made by man, a community of microscopic human beings!

The gentleman who made the discovery is a well-known citizen of Mobile, whose name we are not at liberty to reveal, but whom for the sake of convenience we shall call Mr. A.

Mr. A. is a gentleman in easy circumstances, who has devoted much time to scientific pursuits, particularly to experiments with the microscope. It was while examining with the instrument a specimen of moss or lichen, taken from the roots of a live oak tree near the Spring Hill road, that Mr. A. made his astounding discovery. He saw clinging to the minute branches of the lichen that he had been turning about so unceremoniously, a human being, perfect in form, and with a countenance revealing the wildest terror. The microscopic man was magnified to the size of a small red ant, and when he first met the eye of Mr. A. it is doubtful which of the two were the most terrified, the experimentor at the unexpected discovery, or his microscopic fellow-creature at finding himself subjected to such rough treatment.

"One look was enough," said Mr. A.; "I laid aside the specimen, and for weeks I did not venture to use the microscope again. Was it really true that I had seen a sentient being, where I expected to see only the lower orders of animal life; or had I fallen a victim to my enthusiasm in the prosecution of discoveries in the microscopic world? Had my mind become deranged? I kept my terrible secret to myself, for I could not bear the thought of being laughed at about a matter that had caused such sensation to my mind. At last I determined to make further examination of the specimen of lichen. It remained as I had at first examined it. The microscope was adjusted over it. I looked again, with what interest may well be imagined, and there lay the man that I had seen before, but living no longer. He had died, probably of exhaustion, and there he lay clinging with a death grip to the lichen boughs, whither he had doubtless ventured in search of game.

"Further examination convinced me of the truth of the hypothesis. I discovered several animalculæ recently slain. As well as could be made out by the magnifying power of my microscope, the legs of the animalculæ were tied together as visible boys tie squirrels and partridges. The microscopic man evidently wore clothes, but of what material or how formed it was impossible to determine."

Convinced beyond a doubt by what he had seen, of the existence of a race of microscopic human beings, and somewhat familiarized with the idea that so revolted him at first, Mr. A. continued his researches with the greatest zeal.

The examination of several more specimens of the lichen, and the soil on which it grew, revealed a few more individuals like that mentioned above. Mr. A. was careful not to treat them so roughly as he did the first one discovered, for the thought of having inadvertently killed a fellow-creature has greatly disturbed him.

After a long and careful search of the lichens and the space occupied by them, Mr. A. had the gratification of making his great and crowning discovery, the capital city of the microscopic nation.

This he carefully removed with the foundations on which it stood, and transferred it to a flower pot in his back yard.

It was there that he had the pleasure of beholding the wonderful and minute creation.

The portion of the city so far examined contains a population of probably three millions, or a number about equal to that of London.

It is impossible with the microscope in Mr. A.'s possession to tell of what material the houses are built—whether they are of earth, or wood, or both combined.

The streets appear under the microscope to be about a quarter of an inch in width, and thronged with people hurrying to and fro, whether in the pursuit of commerce or on account of the late shocks their city experienced during its transfer from the root of the tree to the flower pot, cannot, of course, be ascertained.

But they were—men and women magnified to the size of pismires, and displaying all the signs of tumultuous human life!

While we were watching the ever changing crowd we saw one person rush out of a house and another one pursue him.

The pursuer was soon joined by the crowd in the street, and after an exciting chase of about the twentieth part of an inch, measured by the naked eye, the thief, for such the first mentioned individual must have been, surrendered himself, evidently exhausted by his long race.

He was taken away by persons seeming to have authority. What the stolen property was he held in his hand to the last, the microscope was not powerful enough to determine. During the pursuit of the thief the people showed every symptom of excitement common among the larger species of human beings. They clapped their hands, thrust their neighbors rudely aside, and showed by their gesticulations the deepest interest in what was going on, and curiosity concerning it. Their shouts and screams on the occasion were doubtless deafening to one another, but of course they could not be heard by us.

Want of space compels us to bring this subject to a close for the present, although we have recorded but a small fraction of the interesting incidents that came under our own observation, and the more numerous ones that were observed from time to time by Mr. A. When the more powerful microscope ordered by that gentleman arrives, and the expected results are obtained by observations with it, we shall lay the facts before our readers.

The extent of Mr. A.'s discovery may be summed up as follows: A race of sentient beings, invisible to the naked eye, in shape perfect men and women, apparently with all the passions, hopes and fears that sway the larger species. They are considerably advanced in civilization, for they dwell in densely populated cities, a state of society in which the science of government and many of the arts that contribute to the comforts and embellishments of life must necessarily have been developed.

The use of a more powerful microscope will lead to the verification of such an hypothesis, or prove its fallacy.

As the matter stands, all who are interested in the progress of science, and in the spread of Christianity, will feel the deepest solicitude concerning the possibility of communicating with these newly discovered sentient beings in the microscopic world.

How is that to be accomplished. Their voices cannot reach our ears, and to them our voices must be what the music of the spheres is to us. Worlds go whirling through space with a clatter that fills the universe and becomes to mundane ears the equivalent of silence. Such must be the hum of the visible terrestrial creation to the microscopic.

Whether the existence of sentient beings in the microscopic world was ever before suspected we are not prepared to say, but had such a theory been advanced before the discovery we have recorded, it would not have been becoming to a philosopher to reject it without due consideration.

The magnitude of matter, so far as it comes within the comprehension of a finite mind, exists only relatively.

To an inhabitant of the sun surpassing the visible man in magnitude in the same proportion that the sun surpasses the earth, the rulers of the earth become reduced to microscopic beings.

THE BEAUTY OF THE FAMILY.—We leave it to you if the "beauty of the family" don't invariably "turn out" the worst of the lot? If she don't cultivate the outside of her head to the total forgetfulness of the inside? If she is not petted, and fondled, and flattered, and shown off, till selfishness is written all over her? If she is not sure to marry some lazy fellow, or some drunken brute, who will bruise her body—or heart—to a jelly, and be glad to come, with her forlorn children, for a morsel of bread to the comfortable home of that snubbed member of the family who was only "our John" or "Martha," and who never, by any possibility, was supposed by them capable of doing or being anything? We leave it to you, if the "beauty of the family," be he a boy, don't grow up an ass? If he is not sure to disgust everybody with his conceit and affectation, while he fancies he is the admired of all eyes—even if he don't squander all the money he can lay his hands on, and die in the gutter? We never see a very handsome child of either sex, up on the family pedestal to be admired by that family and its friends, to the exclusion of the other children, that we do not feel like patting these children on the head, and saying, "Thank Providence, my dears, that you were not born beauties.'"

THE LITTLE ONES.—Do you ever think how much a little child does in a day? How from sunrise to sunset the dear little feet patter around so aimlessly. Climbing up here, kneeling down there, running to another place, but never still. Twisting and turning, rolling and reaching, and doubling, as if testing every bone and muscle for their future uses. It is very curious to watch it. One who does so will understand the deep breathing of the rosy little sleeper, as with one arm tossed over its curly head, it prepares for the next day's gymnastics. A busy creature is a little child.

Why is a room full of married folks like a room that is empty? Because there is not a single person in it.

LETTER FROM THE WEST.

DAVENPORT, Iowa, May 26, 1869.

EDS. GLOBE: An appreciative reader of the Globe solicits space to apprize his friends of his whereabouts and to give those interested a Pennsylvanian's impressions of Davenport and its surroundings.

In company with two congenial friends the writer left Huntingdon fading in the twilight of Wednesday eve, and passing safely over the Alleghanies and through Columbus and Chicago, arrived in Davenport on Friday, after a ride of about forty hours. On leaving the depot, which is near the river bank, in search of our friends in the city, we were not a little surprised at looking up the best street of the city, to find it as steep as some of the hills on our highways at home.

The city is situated on the western bank of the Mississippi river, and is really the hilliest city we have ever visited. The land rises abruptly from the river and is cut by deep and irregular ravines which render grading difficult and expensive. But judging from the amount of levelling done and improvement made, the city authorities are likely to make it one of the most beautiful and desirable cities of the west.

The finest residences are situated on the bluffs, commanding a view of Rock Island and the majestic river. They are models of beauty in structure and are surrounded by spacious yards full of trees and shrubbery. The site on which the upper part of the city is built seems to have been a dense grove of oaks, uniform in height and size, from eight to twelve inches in diameter. These have all been suffered to grow, except where necessity demanded their removal. Beyond the city the cattle graze over acres, beneath thick shades and through beautiful forests.

A trip or two to the country gave us an insight to farm life. Our observations extend through parts of Scott, Cedar and Muscatine counties. All know that the soil of Iowa is deep, rich and very productive. The improvements are not as good as those in older States, owing in part to the fact that much of the land is owned by men living in the cities, and by non residents of the State, and let out to farm. Besides land is continuously changing hands, owing to the attractions farther west. On most of the farms, cheap houses are built for tenants, with very inferior shelter for stock. At present writing the crops look very flattering. Wheat, oats and barley are just now so nearly alike in appearance and growth that none but an expert can distinguish them. The former being sown in the spring is behind the wheat in Pennsylvania in growth and will be about two weeks later in the harvesting.

The land in Iowa is all divided into sections and the roads are consequently straight, intersecting at right angles. It is singularly surprising to ride for days without being jostled by contact with stones, and it is just as surprising to see your horses sink in a slough and snap the swingle trees, leaving you in the carriage to select the best route to the fence, if there be one. The scarcity of stone to pike will ever militate against travel in the spring of the year. Water of the first quality is found by digging a few feet; the climate is healthy, and we know of nothing to prevent Iowa from becoming one of the richest and most desirable States of the Union.

We might add for the relief of any of our eastern neighbors who have fearful apprehensions of the uncivilized state of the people, that they need no longer hesitate on that score to emigrate, for most of the people we have met are of eastern extraction, and many of them have had the advantages of a parentage much farther east than the Keystone or New York. Besides, if you want to buy an improved farm inside of forty or fifty dollars an acre, you will be obliged to emigrate very soon.

Respectfully, W. S. SMITH.

A BEAUTIFUL SENTIMENT. — Life bears us on like the stream of a mighty river. Our boat first glides down the mighty channel—through the playful murmurings of the little brook and the windings of its grassy borders.—The trees shed their blossoms over our young heads; the flowers seem to offer themselves to the young hands; we are happy in hope, and grasp eagerly at the beauties around us, but the stream hurries on, and still our hands are empty. Our course in youth and manhood is alone a deeper and wider flood, among objects more striking and magnificent. We are animated at the moving pictures and enjoyment and industry all around us; we are excited at some shortlived disappointments.—The stream bears us on, and our joys and our griefs are alike behind us.—We may be shipwrecked, but we cannot be delayed; whether rough or smooth, the river hastens on till the roar of the ocean is in our ears, and the tossing of the waves is beneath our feet, and the floods are lifted up around us, and we take our leave of the earth and its inhabitants, until of our future voyage there is no witness save the Infinite and Eternal.—Heber.

Flowers teach us we are mortal—as they fade so must we. The lesson is daily offered us—do we heed it? Evergreens hint of immortality, because in the dreariest days of winter they are green-robed; yet they too die.

A fatal disease is raging among the cattle in and about Fredericsburg, Va., and especially among the milch cows, which takes them off suddenly.

The Marriage Relation.

In the Presbyterian General Assembly, Old School, in session at New York, recently, Rev. Mr. Beer offered the following resolutions:

Whereas, It is well known that the unscriptural views of the marriage relation are becoming prevalent in some parts of our land, so that its obligations are disregarded by many, and separations of husband and wife, and divorces for slight and unwarrantable reasons are becoming more frequent every year; and, whereas, the horrible crime of infanticide is on the increase; and, whereas, the evils which these errors and crimes have already brought upon the church and country, and the worse evils which they threaten in the future make it imperative that the whole power of the ministry and church of Jesus Christ should be put forth in the maintenance of truth and virtue in regard to these things; therefore,

Resolved, That we urge upon all the ministers of our church the duty of giving instructions to the people of their respective charges on the scriptural doctrines concerning the marriage relation, and that we warn them against joining in wedlock any who may have been divorced upon other than scriptural grounds, and we also exhort Church sessions to the exercise of due discipline in the cases of those members who may be guilty of violating the laws of Christ in this particular.

Resolved, That we regard the destruction by parents of their own offspring, before birth, as a crime against God and against nature, and that as there are many influences at work in public and in secret to corrupt the minds of the people, until the frequency of such murders is no longer sought to be concealed, we hereby warn those who are guilty of these crimes that they cannot inherit eternal life, and that it is vile hypocrisy for such persons to remain in connection with the visible church of Christ; and we exhort those who have been called to preach the gospel, and all those who love purity and the truth, and who would arrest the just judgment of the Almighty God from the state and nation, that they may be no longer silent or tolerant of these things, but take a bold stand that the flood of impurity and cruelty may be stayed.

Wait Awhile.

Wait a moment, young man, before you throw that money down on the bar and demand a glass of brandy and water. Ask yourself if twenty-five cents can be better invested in something else. Put it back in your pocket, and give it to the poor. Take our word for it, you will not be sorry.

Wait, mother, before you speak harshly to the little chubby rogue who has torn his apron and soiled his white Marseilles jacket. He is only a child; "mother" is the sweetest word in the world to him. Needle and thread and soapsuds will repair all damages now; but if you once teach him to shrink from his mother and hide away all his childish faults, that damage cannot be repaired.

Wait, husband, before you wonder audibly why your wife don't get along with family cares and household responsibilities, as your mother did.—She is doing her best—and no woman can bear that best to be slighted. Remember the night she sat up with the little babe that died; remember the love and care she bestowed on you when you had that long spell of illness! Do you think she is made of cast iron? Wait—wait in silence and forbearance, and the light will come back to her eyes—the old light of the old days.

Wait, wife, before you speak reproachfully to your husband when he comes home late and weary and "out of sorts." He has worked for you all day long; he has wrested, hand in hand, with Care, Selfishness and Greed, and all the demons that follow in the train of money-making. Let home be another atmosphere entirely; let him feel that there is one place in the world where he can find peace and quiet and perfect love.

Wait, bright young girls, before you arch your pretty elbows, and whisper "old maid" as the quiet figure steals by, with silver in its hair and crow's feet around the eyes. It is hard enough to lose life's gladness and elasticity—it is hard enough to see youth drifting away, without adding to the bitter cup one drop of scorn! You do not know what she has endured; you never can know until experience teaches you, so wait before you sneer at an old maid.

CHRISTIAN WOMANHOOD.— Henry Ward Beecheer, in a recent sermon, discoursed thus in regard to the fair sex:—"Maidens, look to the God of your fathers. If there be any one in this world who cannot afford not to be a Christian, it is a woman. If there be any one whose beauty fades as a flower and whose grace needs the sustenance of the ineffable; if there be any one whose power is in beauty, in purity, goodness, it is a woman. If there be any one more than another upon whom blight falls more rudely; if there be any one more than another, who is more burdened with grief or more wrung with sorrow, it is a woman. I marvel to see a woman that is not a Christian. The ladder between her soul and God is not half so long as that between our souls and God. God made woman to be better than man; and the perversion is in proportion when she is worse."

An old minister the other day asked a woman what could induce her husband to attend church. She replied: "Put a pipe and a jug of whisky in the pew. That'll fetch him."

☞Minister Washburne arrived in Paris a few days ago and was presented to the Emperor Napoleon, by Gen. Dix, his predecessor, who returns home.

☞The President and Cabinet attended the Decorating ceremonies on Saturday last at Arlington Cemetery, the famous burial ground on the old estate of Robert E. Lee.

☞Mrs. Sally Fisk Granger, mother of the late Hon. Stephen A. Douglas, died recently at her residence in Clifton Springs, N. Y., of heart disease. She was in the eighty-first year of her age.

☞The Rhode Island Legislature has ratified the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution by a large majority. Half-a-dozen more States will make a sufficient number to complete the work, and forever establish equality of suffrage as a fundamental principle of government.

☞Gov. Curtin received full and final instructions from the State Department on the 31st ult. He will sail from New York, on the 17th inst., accompanied by T. J. Coffee, Esq., as Secretary of Legation, and Mr. Robert H. Gratz, as his private Secretary. We wish him God-speed and a safe journey.

☞The members of the Pennsylvania Reserve Corps Association held their ninth annual reunion at West Chester, on the first inst. Gov. Curtin, President of the Association, presided, and delivered one of his eloquent and characteristic speeches. The annual oration was delivered by Col. R. Biddle Roberts, of Pittsburg.

☞"Decoration Day" was observed everywhere throughout the country in a most fitting and feeling manner. It must be a real comfort to those who lost a near and dear relative by the war, to realize that they are not forgotten. How beautiful it is, for the comrades of a fallen hero, to assemble annually to strew flowers—sweet flowers upon his grave? Truly, such a people cannot perish by a fratricidal or intestine war.

☞The recent massacre by the Indians in Kansas was a horrible affair. Dispatches relate that after the massacre "the tongues and hearts were cut out of the dead bodies; the calves of their legs were slit down and tied under their shoes; pieces of flesh were cut from their backs; pieces of telegraph wire stuck into them, and the ears cut off and heads scalped." Further, that the fiends "boiled the hearts of their victims for medicine."

☞Dr. Rush, an eminent physician of Philadelphia, died recently at his residence in that city. He bequeathed nearly a million of dollars to found a library. One of the provisions of his will forbids a due allowance of space in his library "to those teachers of disjointed thinking, the daily newspapers." The sanity of the testator may not be questioned on this account, but his benefit would have been perfect with the prohibition omitted.

☞A banquet has been tendered to Gov. Curtin, previous to his departure for Russia, by a number of the most distinguished citizens of Philadelphia. The Governor has named the 12th inst., as the day, and the banquet will take place at the Academy of Music at five o'clock P. M, and at half past seven o'clock the doors will be thrown open to the public, so that the speeches, toasts, &c., may be heard. A "gay and happy" time may be expected, on the occasion.

☞With all the bluster and fury of the English journals and English statesmen, over Senator Sumner's recent speech, they are very anxious that no war shall arise between us, but that the most amicable relations and the best of good feeling shall continue to pervade the two countries. Shouldn't wonder if they do desire peace, for the American Eagle never uses her talons but she tears the flesh, and the skin of the British Lion is in a very tender condition at present.

☞The coming session of the Grand Lodge of Good Templars of Pennsylvania, which commences at Scranton, on Tuesday, the 8th instant, promises to be the largest gathering of this order ever held in the State. The fare on the railroads leading to the place of meeting will be reduced one-half, for the benefit of the delegates. Arrangements have been made at all the hotels, as well as many private residences in Scranton, for the accommodation of visitors during the session, at reduced rates.

☞The English papers are still furiously attacking Senator Sumner's great speech, but not one of them dare or has had the courage to print it in their columns. They curse and swear, and invent all kinds of stories in reply to the Senator, but refuse to allow him to be heard by reproducing his truthful expose of their unwarrantable conduct towards us during the war, by allowing privateers to be built on her soil to prey upon and ruin our commerce. Her flagrant violation of international law may yet cause her to mourn the loss of her commerce upon the high seas, if she persistently refuses to make full and satisfactory reparation for the damage inflicted upon us, by the destruction of our vessels, at a time when we were at peace with her as well as all other foreign powers. We hope, for the benefit of the civilized world that after the impetuous and hot-headed Johnny Bull has "spent his fury" and exhausted his vocabulary of invectives, he will then come down to reason and common sense, and discuss the question calmly and dispassionately, acknowledge the injustice of her course and pay us for the losses sustained by her privateers.

☞"Decoration Day" was celebrated on three different days in different parts of the country. In some localities, its touching ceremonies were performed on Saturday, in others on Sunday, and in still others on Monday. This is unfortunate, and ought not to recur on another year. The New York Evening Post suggests that "Decoration Day," as it is already called, should become a yearly holiday—that it should be added to the small number of our national festivities, and set apart as a day of thanks for our great deliverance, and of grateful remembrance of those brave soldiers who gave their lives to the cause of the Union and free government. The suggestion is a good one. The 8th of January was kept until lately, in memory of the battle of New Orleans and the triumph of American arms under Andrew Jackson; but this custom has been dropped. Why not adopt the practice of keeping "Decoration Day," in honor of the triumph of freedom and the Union?

☞General Butler is said to have expressed the opinion lately, in conversation with some merchants in New Bedford, "that if England could get a good sound drubbing from somebody, the cause of Christian civilization would be put forward a hundred years; and he would not seriously object to this country being the instrument of Divine Providence to administer the castigation." Gen. Butler is an able man and a good lawyer, but entirely precipitate. If he will only wait patiently for a little while we think that England will accede to our just demands, without a war. Already the English press and politicians are cooling down, and returning to sense and reason. After the British Government has refused—positively refused—to indemnify us for our losses, it is time enough to talk about war.

☞We have again the monthly debt statement very promptly from Mr. Boutwell. The aggregate decrease of the debt during the month of May was $13,384,777, and the decrease since the first of March amounts to over twenty millions of dollars. Yet the defamers of our country tell you that the Republican party is ruining the country. We conjure the working classes to ponder over these figures, and ask themselves whether the Democratic party (so-called) can do as well, or better. No party, that ever existed, could do more for a people or a country, than the Republican party is now doing. Look well to your interests before you lend your support to those who seek your ruin.

POLITICAL ECONOMY.—Horace Greeley has commenced a series of articles in the Tribune, on Political Economy, in which he will "expound and defend the doctrine of Protection." In the two chapters before us, Mr. Greeley handles his subject in a clear, able and forcible manner, which is a sure guarantee of what is to come, and we only regret that every man in the country cannot have the opportunity of reading and reflecting over the principles promulgated by so able and clear-sighted an advocate of protection to American industry as Horace Greeley, who is surrounded on every side by Free Traders, yet he "beards the Lion in his den."

☞Minister Motley arrived in England a few days ago. He was received by the English people in the kindliest manner possible. He delivered a very conciliatory, and to the English people, a very satisfactory address, upon his arrival at Liverpool. The English press can see no war in his remarks, and have taken fresh courage, and are jubilant, after having the "dumps" ever since the receipt of Sumner's speech.

Mr. Motley carried with him no positive instructions on the Alabama question, for reasons best known to the administration. We can better afford to wait for an adjustment of the claims than England can.

☞The coach which conveyed the remains of President Lincoln from Washington to Springfield, now owned by the Union Pacific Railroad Company is kept at Omaha. It is known as the "Lincoln Car," and is never run except for officers of the road, or special parties of their inviting.

Gen. George H. Thomas.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune, who is on the wing, writing from Omaha, pays the following handsome compliment to the renowned chieftain whose name heads this article:

Among our passengers was General George H. Thomas, en route for his new field—the entire Pacific coast with headquarters at San Francisco. We of the East are hardly aware of the admiration, the enthusiasm, the personal affection felt for Thomas throughout the West. Everywhere one hears him spoken of as "Old Reliable," "Pop Thomas," "The Rock of Chickamauga," "That splendid Old Man." In point of fact, his age is only 52; but his grave, kindly demeanor does carry a paternal suggestion. He is certainly one of the finest characters brought out by the war. President Lincoln, when first desired to make him a Major General, replied with a distrust born of many disappointments: "No; he is from the South; I will wait till he earns it." Thomas heard of this—and how gloriously he did earn the Major-Generalship and every other honor he has received! He was always at his post, and for three years he did not once see his wife. He never got whipped; he never complained of anything; he never accepted any promotion until it was fairly thrust upon him; "he never committed an act that had to be explained or apologized for."

☞Under auspices of the Woolen Manufacturers of the North West, a general Exposition of Textile Fabrics is to be held at Cincinnati in August. Products of mills, and staples of cotton, wool, silk, flax, and hemp, will be exhibited. There are now 3,500 cotton and woolen factories in the United States, of which the Southern States have but 317. We look to the new exposition for knowledge as to the needs as well as the products of the various sections, and for stimulus to manufacturing enterprises at the West and South.

The Cuban Revolution.

The revolution for independence which has been raging in Cuba since the 25th of January last, begins to assume tangible shape in favor of the revolutionists. Everywhere they are victorious, and the cruel and tyrannical Spaniards begins to fear the result. The wrongs of Cuba may be placed along side of the wrongs of the American colonists. It is the old story repeated, and ere long we hope to chronicle the Declaration of Independence of Cuba.

☞The Indians are again becoming troublesome on the plains, notwithstanding the fact that Sheridan gave them a severe "drubbing" last winter, and was promised all sorts of good things, by the deceitful and wretched red-skins. We hope the presence of our "broad-brim" friends will leave a salutary effect upon the warlike propensities of the devilish savages. We do not wish to be considered inhuman or cruel, but we candidly believe that the cheapest way to get rid of our Indian troubles, would be to kill and scalp every mother's son of them.

☞The Imperialist, a sickly newspaper started in New York a short time ago, in the interest of a monarchy for the United States, and about which Democratic journals got up a fictitious alarm, because, as they avowed, it was in the interest of the Radicals, has promptly rebuked them by declaring against both Grant and the Radicals, and advocating a despotism with the rebel General Lee at its head. What have they got to say now?

☞Reverdy Johnson arrived in Baltimore from Europe on Friday. The citizens of Baltimore have tendered him a public dinner, which is to come off as soon as the authorities can make the necessary arrangements. The Ex-Minister is said to look hale and hearty, and is prepared to eat all the dinners that may be proffered him. Beware of the Punch's pudding.

☞The registered dead of the Union armies, in summing up the costs of our Southern rebellion, exceed three hundred thousand men cut off in the vigor of their youth or mankind.—Their cemeteries mark the bloody and fiery trails of the war through the Southern States, beginning at Arlington Heights, within cannon shot across the Potomac from the President's House. On Arlington Heights, the property of General Lee in the beginning of the war, a graveyard of many thousands of Union soldiers received especial honors from General Grant on Decoration day. The special features of the occasion at this place was the decoration of the monument under which lie the remains of two thousand heroes marked "unknown." Thence we follow one or two lines of populous cemeteries through Eastern Virginia down to Richmond, including Bull Run, Culpepper, Fredericksburg and the Richmond peninsula. Thence down through the Carolinas on the trail of Sherman into the heart of Georgia, from which, branching off to the southward, we halt at Andersonville, the most melancholy graveyard of them all, with its thirteen thousand victims of imprisonment, torture, exposure, disease and starvation. Thence northward through Georgia we go along a line of National cemeteries, culminating in the large one at Chattanooga, in the gateway through which "the confederacy" was broken to pieces. Thence through Tennessee and Kentucky, and thence across West Virginia to the Shenandoah Valley, and down it to Harper's Ferry, from which point, diverging to Antietam and Gettysburg, we finish a circuit of some two hundred thousand of the Union dead. Missouri and the line of the Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana and Texas will very nearly supply another hundred thousand.

Woman's Rights.

Mrs. R. S. McConnaughy, editress of the Clayton Herald, gives her views on this subject in the following language:

We once laughed at the idea of woman's rights and wondered what these advocates of woman's rights wanted. We thought they already possessed them or believed we at least did. But as we have grown older our eyes have been opened; we now see that the women are a poor oppressed set and do not blame them for raising a muss once in a while to get them. We wonder why it is that we poor women cannot do as we please and act what we feel? Why it isn't just as safe and proper for us to walk out alone, when we choose and where we choose without an attendant as for the men?—They can walk out all hours of the day and night if they feel like it and no one molests them. Then we can't see why a woman has not just as much right to run out when she feels like it, as the sterner sex, without having to don her fixings, her powders and paints, her flowers and laces, her chignons and paniers? Men don't do it. Why can't she if she feels like it wear a bonnet that suits her or a dress that is comfortable, no matter about the style or if it belonged to a fashion that dated back to the day of her girlhood, without having some one remark:—"My, just look at that woman, how old fashioned and homely she looks; why, I wouldn't be her husband for a mint of money;" when perhaps this same croaker has just been giving his wife a curtain lecture on extravagance, and wondered why women must spend so much for dress, and why they could not dress just as plain as their mothers or grandmothers had done before them. Why, ah why? We will tell him why. The men are the cause of the whole trouble. They admire pretty and smart looking women. We have heard them remark, "just look at such and such a one, she is good looking, how those furbelows become her! we once thought she was only passable, but now she looks angelic; we didn't know dress made such a difference; we do not care how much the dear creatures put on if they will only look pretty!"

We wonder if there was ever a woman from Mother Eve down, that did not like to be admired or to be thought pretty in somebody's eyes. We cannot see why it is that women have not the right to be composed of as tough material as the men, instead of being only a bundle of nerves that is scared to death at every ugly bug, worm, toad, frog or snake that crosses her path. We cannot for the life of us see why, when a woman grows old, that she must not show it, but must be forever standing before the glass, putting on powder, paint, enamel or such stuff to hide the wrinkles, pulling out the gray hairs, or what is far worse putting on some man's invention—dye stuff. We see men daily playing tops, marbles, balls, running, jumping, and in fact whatever their feelings prompt them without anything being said about it. And we cannot see why we poor women have not the same right to toss hoops, jump rope, and in fact act like girls again even if we are wrinkled and gray-headed, without lowering our dignity. We wouldn't give the toss of a copper for the right to vote; we don't want it and would not vote if we could. What care we who holds the offices, or makes the money, so we have the right to be natural and act ourself, just as we did when we came from the hands of our Maker? When men grant these, our just rights, we will cease to grumble, and will become some of those delightful creatures—angels without wings. Until that time comes we shall make no promises of what we women will do or what we will be.

THRILLING SCENE.—We have briefly announced the terrible calamity which occurred to the canal boat M. G. Weatherbee, at the Fort Miller Dam, on Monday last, by which the wife and child of Captain Clark, the commander of the craft, were drowned.—The particulars of the affair possess a thrilling interest. It appears that the Weatherbee, which was loaded with coal, was on the point of crossing the river at the bridge, and Captain Clark, with two hands, had stepped ashore with a rope to keep the stern of the boat near the dock, leaving no one on board except Mrs. Clark and her young child about eighteen months old. As the boat approached the break in the dam, where the current was very strong, the stern swung out into the stream, and got beyond the control of the captain and his men, as their ropes were too short to fasten to the mooring posts. The captain's wife made every possible effort to give out more line, but owing to excitement, failed of success. They then tried to hold the boat with the towing line, but were compelled to cut it to keep from drawing the horses into the river. As the boat came into the break Mrs. Clark took her child in her arms, and cried "Save me! Save me! Save me!" At this time fifty or more men were on the shore, near the boat, and others to sit down. The lock tender, Martin Freeman, in a truly brave spirit, started for her in a small row boat. When he came near, Mrs. Clark, hugging her child to her breast, jumped for the boat, but failed to reach it. Freeman sprang for her, but without success.—The canal boat then went over the dam, followed by the small boat.—Freeman saw Mrs. Clark but once after he went over the dam. His boat was capsized and he got on top, and so went over the second falls. He was several times thrown from the boat, the water striking him with such force in the face that the blood gushed from his nostrils. He drifted down the river half a mile, and was rescued alive by some men on the opposite shore.—Captain Clark fainted and fell as his wife went over the dam. It is believed that his wife would have been saved if she had remained in the boat, as it lodged a short distance below the dam. —Troy, N. Y., Times.

TERRIBLE KEROSENE ACCIDENT—A Whole Family Burned.—A terrible kerosene accident, caused by the explosion of a lamp, occurred last evening at No. 131 Meadow street, Hoboken. A family consisting of three persons, were burned. The son has since died of his injuries, while the mother is fatally wounded. The father escaped with only a few slight burns.

It seems that William Haese, a German mechanic, was detained at his labor until a late hour, the wife waiting tea for her husband's return. Haese came home shortly after nine o'clock, when the family, consisting of himself, his wife Emily and their son Gustave, a lad of eight years, sat down to the table.

In some way, while reaching across the table for a plate, the boy overturned the lamp, which broke. The oil exploded instantly, the blazing fluid scattering itself over the persons of all three, and setting fire to their clothing, burned them horribly. Their screams attracted the attention of the other inmates of the house who rushed into the room and finally succeeded in extinguishing the flames.

The sufferers were removed to St. Mary's Hospital, where they were attended by Dr. R. Chabert, who did all in his power to alleviate their sufferings, but without avail in the case of the boy Gustave, who died this morning. The mother, Emily, is also fatally burned, and will probably die before night. The father is only slightly burned, and will recover.—N. Y. Post, 28th.

Go to the G. T. Festival next Tuesday.

Festivals and pic-nics are again coming in vogue.

Good heads for accounts—bill-heads. We print them neatly at this office.

Ten thousand dollars worth of property was destroyed by fire at Ebertstown, Centre county, recently.

An effort is being made by the Y. M. C. A of this place to ascertain how many children don't go to Sunday School, and why.

A man named Evans fell from the roof of a building in Bedford county, over thirty feet high, and didn't break any bones.

Mrs. M. C. Baird has been appointed postmistress at Three Springs, this county. She officiates as satisfactorily as 'any other man.'

Holmesburg, Bucks county, boasts of the oldest grist mill in the State, it having been built in 1679, or one hundred and ninety years ago.

Aggravated cases of spring fever are becoming alarmingly prevalent hereaways.—We would advise those afflicted to beware of mad dogs.

A small lad named Callahan was killed at Lily's station, Cambria county, recently, by a large mass of coal falling on him, which he had been undermining.

In Altoona recently a young son of Mr. Nothwang immersed its arms in a tub of scalding water, and peeled off the flesh in a shocking manner.

According to a law passed by the last Legislature, all sewing machines belonging to seamstresses are exempt from levy and sale, on execution or distress for rent.

Snooks wonders where all the pillow-cases go to. He says he never asked a woman while engaged on plain sewing what she was making, without being told that it was pillow-cases.

Bethlehem, Pa., boasts of a fire engine nearly two hundred years old. It was brought to this country in 1743. We have an engine which is used in this place that was built in 1809, sixty years ago.

A drum the head of which is eight feet in diameter and made from the hides of two mammoth oxen, arrived in Boston for the Peace Jubilee. It is three feet through, and is said to be perfect in all its parts.

The Pennsylvania Central is the first railroad in the country to make a through connection from the seaboard to Chicago. A lease of the Fort Wayne and Chicago road has been perfected and signed by the directors of both companies.

The organ grinders made their annual appearance last week. They were hailed with delight by the little ones and some of our country friends who hadn't heard the things whine and squeak before, but as for us who have, the less of such music the better.

From all quarters we hear of glorious prospects of the grain and fruit crops.—This makes editors and others feel good. Farmers, in view of this prospect, will do well not to hoard their grain in anticipation of high prices. Experience teaches wisdom.

A fortune teller in Altoona predicted one of the largest fires that ever visited that fiery city during the absence of the firemen at Harrisburg. The two days passed, and no fires occurred. The fears of the citizens who were gulled were allayed and they have now less confidence in fortune-tellers.

An unknown German, about 30 years of age, was run over and killed by the Day Express east, at Bixler's Gap, below Lewistown, recently. He was walking on the track, and seeing a train coming, instead of getting off the tracks altogether, he walked on to the other, and thus met the fate of many others.

A handsome young bride was observed to be in deep reflection on her wedding day. One of her bridesmaids asked her the subject of her meditations. "I was thinking," she replied, "which of my old beaux I should marry if I become a widow." Oh, woman, where was thy constancy?

A terrific storm raged in this State on Monday of last week. It visited this place, where it was like a tornado. It did very little damage, but we understand it carried great destruction in its train in the northern part, of the county, the extent of which, however, no one has interest enough to give us.

Fanny Fern says: The coming woman shall be no cold, angular, flat-chested, narrow-shouldered, skimply, sharp-visaged Betsey; but she shall be a bright-eyed, full-chested, broad-shouldered, large-souled, intellectual being, able to walk, able to eat, and able to fulfill her natural destiny.

No business man has lost by advertising. We have found that those who gave the most attention to advertising gave a corresponding attention to business, for in this world of rivalry and competition, he wins who is known the best, and advertising and business are as inseparable as store room and goods. Take away your store-room, and what becomes of your goods; take out your advertisement and your business is gone.

A man by paying the simple sum of two dollars for his county paper will learn enough to save him hundreds of dollars, besides being well informed of the current news of the day, of which let a man be ignorant and he is pronounced a blockhead. Many a man has suffered fifty dollars worth of trouble and expense by not taking his county paper. Above all things, don't borrow your information from your neighbor's paper, but subscribe for your own "like a man."

Proceedings of the Borough Council.

Stated Meeting, June 4th, 1869.

Present:—Chief Burgess, Mr. Miller; Assistant Burgess, Messrs. Elliott and Africa. Council, Messrs. Carmon, Heffright, Jackson, Port and Strickler.

The minutes of the last stated meeting were read and approved.

The committee on finance presented a report of their settlement of the accounts of the Treasurer which was read and approved.

The bill entitled "An Act to raise funds to meet the interest on the Engine House loan" &c., was read and laid over.

Mr. Jackson moved that the ordinance passed at last stated meeting levying a tax upon dogs be amended by reducing the tax from one dollar to fifty cents. On this question the yeas and nays were as follows:

YEAS, Messrs. Africa, Carmon and Jackson,—3.

NAYS, Messrs. Elliott, Heffright, Port and Strickler,—4. So the amendment was not agreed to.

Bills were read and orders granted as follows:

John C. Miller making fires at Court House	1,50
J. P. Snyder, lumber for Cemetery walk	200,00
Hunt. Gas Co. gas consumed in May	8,40
Check Roll, A. H. Hight for April	11,99
do do N. Williams for May	64,70
James Kelley holding election	1,50
P. C. Swoope do do	1,50
N. Williams do do	1,50
Steel, Lytle & Steel 7 Ties at 27½	1,92½
John Carmon, Contractor on Engine House	1000,00
Henry Glazier, Treasurer, amount over paid	163,26

On motion, the Council proceeded to elect an Assessor for the dog tax, when John Snyder was unanimously elected.

On motion of Messrs. Africa and Elliott, the Secretary was directed to levy a tax of eight mills on the dollar for borough purposes and prepare a duplicate of the same for delivery to the collector.

On motion, a committee consisting of Messrs. Port, Elliott and Africa, was appointed to call upon the officers of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and secure the opening of the gutter along the northern side of Allegheny street west of Montgomery.

On motion it was,

Resolved, That the Burgesses be and they are hereby authorized to procure the necessary furniture for the new Council Chamber.

On motion it was,

Resolved, That the High Constable be and he is hereby directed to notify N. C. Decker immediately, that unless he shall proceed within thirty days to lay a brick pavement along the southern side of Washington street, opposite his Washington House property, according to the ordinance relative to pavements on that square, the Street Commissioner will lay the same and the cost thereof with the usual percentage will be collected from Mr. Decker.

Adjourned.

A Dog-ged Trick.

For some time past our town has been the nursery of struggling dogs, which we understand have been shipped in freight cars from the city of Altoona. This dodge by our city neighbors has more impudence in it than good sense, and we would recommend to the authorities there that if they cannot get rid of their worthless curs in a better manner, they had better have more respect for the canines' feelings of hunger than to send them here to starve, as nobody wants to keep such dogs as the Altoonians take this mode to get rid of. We have more than our share of such brutes now, and we would advise owners in Altoona to attend to their own hydrophobia cases, or else the game of retaliation will be tried.

New Firm.

Mr. C. Long retires from the firm of Henry & Co, as will be seen by today's paper. The firm now consists of Mr. S. E. Henry and Mr. Thomas S. Johnston, of whom we can truly say that two better business men cannot be found in the State. They have ever been alive to the interests of their customers, and their just and fair dealings have insured them no lack of patronage. They are engaged in a mammoth business, and they give careful and prompt attention to its most minute details. Go and see them.

Strawberry Festival.

Standing Stone Lodge, No. 85, I. O. of G. T., propose holding a Festival in the Castilian Garden on Tuesday evening next, the 15th inst. Strawberries, Ice Cream, cakes, soda water, etc., will be furnished in abundance.—The Lodge expects to be liberally patronized by our citizens, and we trust its expectations will not be disappointed. The proceeds are to be applied to liquidating the debts of the Lodge.

☞ Jas. T. Scott, formerly a citizen of this place, of the firm of Scott, Barrett & Co., paid us a visit on Friday last, and we were pleased to learn was flourishing in his business. He leaves this week for Europe, for the purpose of making purchases of watches and jewelry, and after he returns he will open a business house in New York. His Pittsburg house will be continued. We wish him a safe journey and success in business.

To the Pastors, Office Bearers, and Members of the Christian Churches of Huntingdon.

The undersigned have been appointed a Committee on Temperance, by the Young Men's Christian Association, with instructions to address the churches upon the subject. We desire to perform this duty in no censorious spirit, and with no pretension to any right to teach. We only ask a careful and christian consideration of a new plea for a cause always before us.

The Association wishes to do something against the vice, which is hurrying to destruction so many of our race and even those dear to us, but we cannot see a way to work effectually, as a body of christians, without the full sympathy and aid of the churches.

We do not here offer any information of the nature and extent of the evil of intemperance, because we feel that at this day it is as visible as the light of the sun to all who will see and hear and read.

We shall assume that you hear the great and ever-swelling cry for help in the contest for Temperance.

We shall assume, without argument, that you, in common with christians in general, believe that the grace of God is the only sufficient power with which to combat this evil.

We shall assume that experience has taught that the effort to combat this evil is not hopeless, and hence, if the contest is not made, we have neglected to do what we could, and ruin has come, to some, from our neglect.

This, then, is an imperative and urgent call upon christians to work "quickly;" for, if it is true in general that man's day of grace is short, much more is it true of those who are madly shortening their day and shutting themselves too speedily in that night, from which we hear only the sentence, "No drunkard shall inherit eternal life." It is no less true that as quickly as one passes away another—some one's cherished hope and pride—is following the first steps in the same course.

We think it not too much to assume that the christians we address, hear and admit this call to work. If this is so, we have only to discuss what can be done by churches, as churches, to meet this call.

In many places in our country a new phase of temperance agitation has recently been seen, which is so wholly fit and proper a method for churches that we know of no valid objection to its general adoption. It is, the preaching of temperance sermons and the formation of Church Temperance Societies in each church.

This proper christian method has been wonderfully successful, so that almost the whole membership of churches, before doing little or nothing in the cause, has been brought into active work, and the community has been made to see clearly and to feel that Temperance was one of the christian virtues, enforced by those churches; and that that virtue was not only shown by abstinence from drunkenness, but by an active opposition to and condemnation of all that promotes intemperance.

We deeply feel that so long as members of churches can be pointed to as giving encouragement, by example or otherwise, to drinking or to selling of intoxicating liquor, we cannot put forward, with proper effect, the duty of practicing Temperance as a christian virtue. We especially feel that all argument is lost upon men of the world, interested in or favoring the traffic, when they can point to members of the church who are directly or indirectly sharers of its profits. There is logic used in the bar-room and even in the gutter, which, if not sound, is far too effectual, and its culmination is reached in what is believed to be unanswerable argument when it can name one otherwise undoubted christian as a sharer in the traffic.

Common reason argues, and truly, that so far as action shows, a church consents to that which its members do, openly and persistently, without censure and considers it not in violation of covenant duty nor christian spirit. If a church so consents to the liquor traffic its influence is certainly for the traffic so far as it has any effect; and such an influence is harder for temperance men to combat than all others combined.

May we not safely say that if all church members consented to the traffic, opposition would be hopeless? If so, it follows that all members and all churches, as churches, who so consent, are really helping to swell the tide of destruction and bind the hands of those who oppose it.

In view of these and many other reasons, we, as instructed by the Young Men's Christian Association, do most earnestly but most respectfully suggest the preaching of temperance sermons and the formation of Church Temperance Societies, and ask that the churches will, so far as their respective laws allow, free themselves from all responsibility for the evils of intemperance.

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—I have not done yet considering the advantages to our monied individuals, either collectively or as individuals, in starting some kind of manufacturing interest in our midst. Our town has stood in need too long of some awakening on the subject of its own interests. Too long have we gloried in the vain hope that the town would spring up of itself and assume the proportions of an active, go ahead city. It takes the men to make the town, and not the town to make the men. We know of towns that have attained a world wide celebrity from the fact of their having an enterprising set of individuals that put their heads and their means together and erected a factory that has turned out work to its own credit and to that of its originators. Now, why can't such a thing be done in Huntingdon? Have our men so great a fondness for money that what they have they desire to hoard? We think not; but a stranger coming to our town and perceiving the facilities and advantages our town possesses, wonders at the want of energy our people have in not improving those advantages.—Many a village has been made a city in less time than Huntingdon has been made a town; just because there were a few enterprising men in it. And who ever heard of an enterprising man giving up? It may almost be ranked in the impossibilities. We do not mean to say that he don't fail in what he undertakes sometimes, but he does not become discouraged, at the first or second failure—he rather perseveres until he does succeed, and then he is on the fair way to regain all he lost, and gain more beside. We want just such enterprise as this in our borough, and we hope the day is not far distant when we will have it—not reflecting in the least against the present signs of enterprise that are gradually being manifested. IMPROVEMENT.

☞ A friend in Orbisonia sends us the following items from that locality:

Improving—our town.

Going up—the M. E. church in Orbisonia.

Rock Hill Furnace is preparing for another blast and will soon be in operation.

The grain crops look well, promising a bountiful harvest. So does the fruit, if Jack Frost don't nip them.

There have been a number of sheep killed by the dogs in our vicinity. Would it not be well to dispose of the worthless dogs and tax the balance?

Professor T. O. Cloyd is teaching school in the Narrows school house near Orbisonia.—He has quite a number of students preparing themselves for teachers. Success to them.

The farmers in our "neck o' woods" are becoming awakened to a sense of their duty. Almost every one has got to burning lime, and putting it on their land. The result is, the crops look better and land has raised from twenty to thirty per cent.

☞ "Carbon" writes the following from Broad Top:

Farming on Broad Top this season has made quite an improvement, as there is tilled easily twice as much land as there has been for many years past. The fruit orchards promise to bring a larger yield of fruit than we have had for several years past. I have traveled in some of our nearest vallies this spring and from what I could see and hear farmers say, the winter crops of grain look better than they have looked for twenty years.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

More Precious Than Female Suffrage.

The Creator has endowed woman with a most wonderful organism, but it is often sadly impaired and wasted by peculiar ills and wearing pains. The female may will find in MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS a rare specific and tonic for every period in life. It will rescue the sex from the perils and dangers that threaten during the most critical periods of their existence, carrying them safely through every trying occasion, curing their former weak and sickly constitutions, driving away all chlorotic, scrofulous, organic, nervous, bilious and other disorders that have made their lives miserable. MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS will cure all forms of female difficulties from the earliest stage of female suffering, and to every condition of sickness peculiar to them. It will impart strength to the system, preserve and restore the beauty of face and form, and insure permanent health. Sold only by respectable druggists. my19-bom.

☞ Harper's "Drawer" has the two following good things:

Good conduct at Sunday school seems to be differently rewarded in different localities. In a certain Episcopal church in San Francisco, for instance, each scholar that is in his place before opening school receives a ticket for punctuality. Our correspondent having, as was his habit, come early to school one Sunday, observed a class of six or seven boys, aged from seven to twelve years, all of respectable parentage, throwing dice for who should win the whole lot of punctuality tickets.—He stood aghast at such depravity, in such a place, on such a day—especially when one urchin roared out: "Sixes! I've won; give us the pool!"

A correspondent relates an incident that occurred in Omaha: A gentleman who had received an insulting missive determined to resent it promptly.—Next day, thinking he saw his man ahead, he hastily overtook him, and administered several salutations. The kickee remaining passive, the kicker went round in front to see the effect, and discovered to his regret that he had kicked the wrong man. He apologized, and was answered: "Don't mention it. From the frequency of such little episodes in my experience I was sensible of your demonstration, but was not aware you had made any mistake."

A Disobliging Clerk.—One rainy day when little was being done by the clerks at Stewart's up town store, an elderly man stepped in and asked to see some sheeting. The young man behind the counter of that department, who had recently been employed there, laid down a piece for inspection. "Let me look at another," said the gentleman. The clerk leisurely replaced the first piece and handed down another. This did not suit and more was asked for, and as the clerk was about replacing the goods already shown, the customer requested that it be left, that he might compare it with other pieces. After several more pieces had been looked at, one seemed to suit his wishes, but to make sure of its quality he took hold of one end and carried it nearer the light. "Hold on, sir, none of that," cried the clerk sharply; "you can buy goods here at the counter if you want them." He did not like the trouble of folding up the goods again. "I guess you'd better step down to the cashier's desk and get what is owing you," quietly remarked the supposed customer, who was Mr. Stewart himself. "You are too careful of yourself to do business for me." There was nothing left for the indolent and disobliging clerk to do but, settle his accounts and leave. The lesson was severe, and one which will be lasting in his own case and also in that of his fellow clerks who saw the transaction.

Questions.—Young man, didn't you think just as much of your loving mother when she was preparing your breakfast in the kitchen, as when she was dusting the parlor? Young woman, was your kind mother any less your mother when she was washing your clothes or your face than when she was receiving company in the parlor?

Are you any less a gentleman or lady when doing acts of household duties than when amusing yourselves in company? If you say "nay," then let me ask you, are you despising and depressing those who are engaged in more useful employments than others?

Do you see the point?

Rules for Reading.—Read the best books which wise and sensible persons advise, and study them with reflection and examination. Read with a firm determination to make use of all you read. Do not, by reading, neglect a more important duty. Do not read with a view of making a display of your reading. Do not read too much at a time. Reflect on what you read, and let it be moderately enjoyed and well digested.

Huntingdon, May 2, 1866-tf

For the Farmer.

An exchange says: It is convenient to farmers and croppers to have an easy and correct rule by which to measure corn in cribs. Here is one—having leveled the corn in the crib, measure the length, breadth, and depth, and multiply them together, and deduct from the product one-fifth; and you have the number of bushels in the ear—for shelled corn take one-half of this. To be strictly correct, add half a bushel for every one hundred. Farmers who are fond of cyphering can test the correctness of this rule by taking 1,728 solid inches for a foot, and 2,159 inches in a bushel, and see that the latter is nearly one-fifth larger than the former.

Nine tenths of the diseases which happen to the hoofs and ankles of horses are occasioned by standing on the dry plank floors of the stable. Many persons seem to think, from the way they keep their horses, that the foot of the horse was never made for moisture, and that, if possible, it would be beneficial if they had cowhide boots to put on every time they went out. Nature designed the foot for moist ground —the earth of the woods and valleys —at the same time that a covering was given it to protect it from stones and stumps.

The North British Agriculturist says: To improve the size of potatoes, whether planted with small or large, whole or even cut potatoes, when the plants are only a few inches high, let the shoots be reduced, by pulling them up, to one or two, or at most three of the strongest. The tubers will, consequently, be fewer, and very much larger, also in measure nearly all fit for market and the table. Every grower will do well to try a few rows by way of experiment, if he disbelieves the truth of this statement."

Having lost a heifer by choking with a turnip, and having had one choked since for which I found relief, I send you my remedy, for publication: Get eight feet of telegraph wire, double in the middle, and twist it together so as to leave a loop in it.—Take the creature by the horns and run the loop end of the wire down its throat and pull it out, and the turnip will be pushed down or pulled up in its mouth and give instant relief.

Ayer's

Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them: those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always —that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstruction which causes it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One dose feels tolerably well, often finds that in those of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

McGUIRE'S

SPANISH HAIR DRESSER

For Promoting the Growth, Beautifying the Hair,

And rendering it dark and glossy. No other compound possesses the peculiar properties which so exactly suit the various conditions of the human hair. The use of this oil as a Hair Dressing has been universal in every section of the country in the Spanish Main for centuries.—No preparation of art could give that elegant luxuriance and abundance of hair which have so often been the admiration of travelers in Spain. This oil is highly and delicately perfumed, forming an article unrivaled in excellence and upon which the Spanish people for many years have set the seal of enduring approval.

McGUIRE'S

Mexican Wild Flowers Shampoo Lotion

For removing dandruff and scurf from the head, whitening and perfuming the skin. This article is entirely different from anything of the kind ever offered in this country and is warranted free from all poisonous substances. This valuable lotion was used by the Emperor Maximilian, and Empress Carlotta of Mexico, and universally used by Mexicans for three hundred years. As a wash for the head—it is cooling, cleansing, and refreshing.—When thus used it at once relieves headache.

McGUIRE'S

WILD FLOWERS FOR THE TEETH.

All those who are in favor of white teeth and a pleasant and perfumed breath should at once use McGuire's Wild flowers for the Teeth.
